Gov to MGB: Assess loosened rocks atop Arayat

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO --- Governor Lilia 'Nanay' Pineda asked the Mines and Geosciences Bureau of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (MGB-DENR) the other day to continuously monitor and closely conduct ground assessment on the reported loosening of rocks on top of Mount Arayat that might be 'ready to go down' and may put thousands of people in danger.

This came as Governor Pineda wants to ensure the safety and protection of thousands of residents living in Barangay San Juan Baño in Arayat -- a declared "no habitation zone" and under "state of imminent danger".

"I want the residents to be safe from any disaster that is why I want MGB to conduct regular

P.6-M meat from China seized in Subic port

By MALOU DUNGOG

SUBIC BAY FREEPORT — Port authorities here have confiscated some P600,000 worth of meat products that recently arrived from China, one of the countries affected by the dreaded African swine fever (ASF).

Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) Chairman Wilma T. Eisma said the meat shipment was seized after authorities learned it was shipped from Guangzhou, China.

"It was immediately flagged by the quarantine officer from the Department of Agriculture, and then the Bureau of Customs confiscated the shipment," Eisma explained.

She said the confiscated meat will be immediately destroyed, as recommended by the Bureau of Quarantine Services, with the Bureau of Animal Industry disposing of it at the expense of the consignee.

Eisma said the Port of Subic has been on the lookout for pork products after the government called for strict monitoring in all ports to prevent the entry into the country of pork products contaminated with ASF.

According to Jerome Martinez, manager of the SBMA Seaport Department, the Chinese meat products were shipped in a refrigerated van aboard MV Hansa Altenburg, a container ship that arrived in Subic on May 27.

The container van was declared to contain 2,385 packages of "food items" that were consigned to a trading corporation based in Makati City.

Martinez said the meat shipment had a dutiable value of P591,817.90.

He added that the confiscated meat will be injected with chemicals and then buried underground.

The World Organization for Animal Health (OIE) has declared ASF to be a highly-contagious hemorrhagic viral disease affecting domestic and wild pigs.

Experts say that while

ASF and classical swine fever (CSF) may have similar signs, the ASF virus is unrelated to the CSF virus.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) last week ordered the recall and seizure of imported pork meat products from countries suspected to be affected by the ASF virus.

These are China, Hungary, Latvia, Poland, Romania, Russia, Ukraine, Vietnam, Zambia, South Africa, Czech Republic, Bulgaria, Cambodia, Mongolia, Moldova, and Belgium.

‘Pusher’ arrested for marijuana

SAN ANTONIO, Zambales -- Police arrested a suspected drug pusher selling a sachet of dried marijuana leaves during a drug operation at Purok 2, Barangay Pundaquit here.

Recovered from Tuscano were two transparent plastic sachets of dried marijuana leaves and the marked money.

The suspect now faces charges for violation of Section 5 and 11 in Article II of RA 9165 before the Provincial Prosecutors Office in Iba, Zambales.

Teen drowns in quarry area

By ARMAND M. GALANG

JAEN, Nueva Ecija -- Rescue and retrieval teams, with the support of local fishermen, fished out the body of a 19-year-old farm help who fell on a deep quarry site in Pampanga River in Barangay Sto. Tomas South here Wednesday.

Marzan Mateo, head of the municipal disaster risk reduction management office, said it took them over 24 hours before the body of Elden Villacura, a native of Lanao del Norte who lives with relatives in Barangay Sto. Tomas North this town, was finally recovered about a kilometer downstream of the site where he reportedly fell.

Investigation showed the victim and his companion were washing empty sacks at the shallow portion of the river at around 8 a.m. Tuesday when he lost grip of a sack.

"Sinubukan po niyang kuhanin yung sako pero masyado po palang malalim yung napuntahan na katabi lang kanilang pinaglalabhan ng sako," Mateo said.

As a result, Villacura lost his balance and drown, reports said.

Mateo would not confirm if the sudden depth of the river was caused by the quarry operation but stressed the bare eye revealed the condition of the place.

"Nakita niyo naman na po," he told the media when asked.

Police are still conducting follow investigation on the incident.

2 killed in drug sting

CABANATUAN CITY - Two suspected pushers of shabu from this city were killed in separate anti-drugs operations in less than 24 hours in two Nueva Ecija towns, police reported Sunday.

Col. Leon Victor Rosete, chief of the Nueva Ecija police provincial office, identified the suspects as Benjamin dela Merced, 51, resident of Aduas Sur, and Noelito Balmeyo of Purok 2, Barangay Imelda, Cabanatuan City.

Rosete said Dela Merced was killed in a buy-bust operation launched by the police's drug enforcement in Barangay Canaan West, Rizal town at around 9:15 a.m. Saturday, while Balmeyo was killed in Barangay Baterya, Gabaldon at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

Police said undercover cops were able to buy shabu from the suspects but the latter supposedly opened fire against operatives upon sensing they were dealing with policemen.

Both suspects yielded .38 revolvers and several sachets of shabu.

Green, not grey, economy

THE THEME for this year's World Environment Day is air pollution. All around the world — from megacities to small villages — people are breathing dirty air. An estimated 9 out of 10 people worldwide are exposed to air pollutants that exceed World Health Organization (WHO) air quality guidelines. This is lowering life expectancy and damaging economies across the planet.

To improve air quality, we must know our enemy. Deaths and illnesses from air pollution are caused by tiny particles that penetrate our defences every time we fill our lungs. These particles come from many sources: the burning of fossil fuels for power and transport; the chemicals and mining industries; the open burning of waste; the burning of forests and fields; and the use of dirty indoor cooking and heating fuels, which are major problems in the developing world.

This polluted air kills some 7 million people each year, causes long-term health problems, such as asthma, and reduces children's cognitive development. According to the World Bank, air pollution costs societies more than $5 trillion every year.

Many air pollutants also cause global warming. Black carbon is one such example. Produced by diesel engines, burning trash and dirty cookstoves, it is extremely harmful when inhaled. Reducing emissions of such pollutants will not only improve public health, it could alleviate global warming by up to 0.5°C over the next few decades.

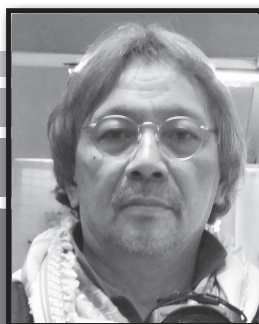

Tackling air pollution therefore presents a double opportunity, as there are many successful initiatives that both clear the air and reduce greenhouse-gas emissions, such as phasing out coal-fired power plants and promoting less polluting industry, transport and domestic fuels. With investments in renewable energy sources outstripping those in fossil fuels every year, the rise of clean energy is helping globally. Cleaner transport is also growing around the world.

It is in such initiatives, designed to improve air quality and fight climate change, that hope lies. I urge everyone attending the Climate Action Summit that I am convening in September to draw motivation from such examples. There is no reason why the international community cannot act. Precedent exists in the Montreal Protocol. Scientists identified a grave threat to public and planetary health, and governments and businesses acted to successfully protect the ozone layer.

Today, we face an equally urgent crisis. It is time to act decisively. My message to governments is clear: tax pollution; end fossil fuel subsidies; and stop building new coal plants. We need a green economy, not a grey economy.

On World Environment Day, I ask each of us to act so we can breathe more easily. From pressuring politicians and businesses to changing our own habits, we can reduce pollution and beat climate change.

Schooling parents

“OF THE 464,771 4Ps children-beneficiaries being monitored by DSWD in the region, 62,798 are not attending school.”

Shocking, to say the least, is the revelation of Department of Social Welfare and Development 4Ps regional program coordinator Tomas Lirio, as reported here last week by Ding Cervantes.

For one, attendance in school is a prerequisite for indigent families to continue receiving cash in varying amounts monthly under the Pantawid Pamilyang Pilipino Program (4Ps).

The greater shock is in the number of these out-of-school kids, presumably in the elementary and junior high age brackets, out there in the open. Maybe eking out what passes for some income-generating activity to help out their parents, open to all sorts of predations.

So, the DSWD is studying whether to disqualify them, unless the parents vow to let their children pursue schooling in the new school year, Lirio said. “We also conduct regular assessment to identify availability of supply side which are contributory to the compliance of these children. Gaps are then lobbied to the local, provincial and regional committees.”

The DSWD launched the Bata Balik-Eskwela Campaign in time for the opening of classes “to initiate collective efforts in encouraging school-aged children to attend school.”

No mere encouragement, make it an imperative for parents — under pain of penalties, suspending 4Ps dole-out just the least — to keep their children in school. Indeed, there have been some proposed legislation on the matter. Like this one discussed in a Zona pieces dated May 16, 2008 titled Irresponsible parenthood:

“ALL SCHOOL-AGED children in basic education must be in school.”

This declared Education Secretary Jesli Lapus in support of a bill filed in the House by Cagayan de Oro Rep. Rufus Rodriguez that sanctions jail terms and/or fines to parents who fail to send their children to school or to provide them with an education.

Poverty, Rodriguez pointed out in his explanatory notes, should never be a hindrance to education since parents can enroll their children in public schools which provide free education.

Lapus even went further to say that poverty should even be a motivating factor for parents to send their children to school.

“Education is life's great equalizer. It is also the number one anti-poverty measure we can have,” the education secretary was quoted as saying.

As “knowledge is power,” so “education is the greatest gift parents can give their children.” It is a life-long treasure that cannot be stolen, that will not perish.

In the rural communities, cursed is the home that did not have a wall — even if only of the lowly sawali — serving as shrine to education where displayed the diplomas, medals and citations of the children.

Premium is indeed put on education as sure-way to get out of poverty. The sagas of Diosdado Macapagal and Oscar Rodriguez are testaments to that.

Parenthood is measured not simply in the number of children sired, but in those reared and educated to be useful citizens.

Failing there thus is the pits of parental irresponsibility. So well discoursed by the philosopher John Stuart Mill in his essay On Liberty: “To bring a child into existence without a fair prospect of being able, not only to provide food for its body, but instruction or training for its mind, is a moral crime, both against the unfortunate offspring and against society.”

A moral crime indeed! Your children did not ask you to be brought out into this world. You did it — with pleasure, to boot!

Now you rear them until such time they can go on their own. That is your obligation not only to your God but to society as well.

But where stands the traditional bastion of morality here?

No to all forms of artificial contraception. Yes to tuition hikes in its exclusive institutions. And the population-education-poverty problem gets on a full cycle, nay, on a spiral: the poor getting more babies, the population mired in ignorance with quality education beyond, poverty a-breeding.

There has to be a stop somewhere. And penalizing parents for abandoning their moral responsibility makes one good start.

Most proper and just then for the state to act.

Thus, per Rodriguez's bill, failure to send children to school will mean imprisonment of six years or a penalty of not more than P100,000.

Abandonment of children translates to six months to two years and a penalty of P100,000.

All sectors of society are bound to support Rodriguez's bill. To save the children. To save society itself.

WONDER WHATEVER happened to that bill.

TODAY IN PHILIPPINE HISTORY

A strong earthquake rocks Manila

ON JUNE 3, 1863, at thirty-one minutes past seven in the evening, after a day of tremendous heat while all Manila was busy in its preparations for the festival of Corpus Christi, the ground suddenly rocked to and fro with great violence.

The firmest buildings reeled visibly, walls crumbled, and beams snapped in two.

The dreadful shock lasted half a minute; but this little interval was enough to change the whole town into a mass of ruins, and to bury alive hundreds of its inhabitants.

Dr. Pedro Pablo Pelaez, in temporary charge of the diocese and dying in the cathedral, was the foremost Filipino victim. Pelaez and several others were celebrating the rites of Corpus Christi at the Cathedral when the earthquake destroyed the roof of the edifice and buried them under the debris which took days to clear. Pelaez' corps was found later beside a friend under the debris of the Cathedral.

A letter of the governor-general, states that the cathedral, the government-house, the barracks, and all the public buildings of Manila were entirely destroyed, and that the few private houses which remained standing threatened to fall in.

The meizoseismic area comprised the Provinces of Manila, Bulacan, Morong (Rizal), Laguna, and eastern Cavite. Fissures in the ground were reported from Bulacan. In Manila the greatest damage to private houses occurred along and near the river. The axis of the meizoseismic area followed the direction of the eastern cordillera.

Later accounts speak of four hundred killed and two thousand injured, and estimate the loss at eight millions of dollars. Forty six public and five hundred and seventy private buildings were thrown down; twenty-eight public and five hundred twenty-eight private buildings were nearly destroyed, and all the houses left standing were more or less injured.

Of mystic John Paul II's warnings

THE LATE Pope John Paul II, now a saint, was a mystic. In his earthly lifetime, he was given the charism of prophecy and, thus, it is worth reexamining his prophetic words, because they have become more timely as ever.

Again, I ask the reader to take advantage of YouTube and search for such titles as “end times,” or “signs of the end,” and these sites will also lead to other titles comprising of actual footages of strange phenomena that somehow pushes viewers to think more seriously of, well, the biblical Apocalypse.

Indeed, John Paul II once warned: “We are now facing the final confrontation between Church and anti-church, between the Gospel and the anti-Gospel, between Christ and the Antichrist. This confrontation lies within the plans of Divine Providence. It is therefore in God’s plan, and it must be a trial, which the Church must take up and face courageously.”

Another time, John Paul II said : “Precisely at the end of the second millennium, there accumulates on the horizon of all mankind enormously threatening clouds, and darkness falls upon human souls.”

In view of this, he issued a call: “Every Christian must be keenly aware of the dangers to which man is subject to; in this world, in his temporal future, and in his final eternal, eschatological future. The awareness of these dangers does not generate pessimism, but rather encourages the-struggle for victory of good in every realm.”

At World Youth Day in 1993, he issued this appeal: “Do not be afraid to go out on the streets and into public places, like the first apostles who preached Christ and the good news of salvation in the squares of cities, towns, and villages. This is no time to be ashamed of the Gospel.... It is the time to preach it from the rooftops.”

End time mystics, including Marian visionaries, say unresponsive mankind are headed towards an unprecedented chastisement, “worse than the flood (in the time of Noah). At the same time, the evil of our times- when assorted evils are not regarded as normal, even heroic- could lead many unrepentant to hell.

So, let me take a sudden swerve here and quote visionaries from Medjugorje who were either physically taken to, or just given a vision of hell which, they stress, is an actual place beyond the realm of limited corporeality.

Visionary Vicka was literally taken to Hell in the company of the Blessed Virgin Mary. She later recalled: “We saw many people in Hell. Many are there already, and many more will go there when they die... The Blessed Mother says that those people who are in Hell, are there because they chose to go there. They want to go to Hell.... In the center of this place is a great fire, like an ocean of raging flames. We could see people before they went into the fire, and then we could see them coming out of the fire. Before they go into the fire, they look like normal people. The more they are against God’s will, the deeper they enter into the fire, and the deeper they go, the more they rage against Him. When they come out of the fire, they don’t have human shape anymore; they are more like grotesque animals, but unlike anything on earth. It’s as if they were never human beings before... They were horrible. Ugly. Angry. And each was different; no two looked alike... When they came out they were raging, smashing everything around, hissing, gnashing, and screeching.”

On the other hand, Marija, also of Medjugorje, merely saw hell. She related: “Yes, it’s a large space with a big sea of fire in the middle. There are many people there. I particularly noticed a beautiful young girl. But when she came near the fire, she was no longer beautiful. She came out of the fire like an animal; she was no longer human... At the moment of death, God gives everyone the grace to see his whole life, to see what he has done, to recognize the results of his choices on earth... The one who lives in sin on earth can see what he has done and recognize himself as he really is. When he sees himself and his life, the only possible place for him is Hell. He chooses Hell because that is what he is. That is where he fits. It is his wish. God does not make the choice. God condemns no one. We condemn ourselves. Every individual has free choice. God gave us freedom.”

“We beg Mr. Lazatin to please consider passing legislation that would give us consumers needed relief from Pelco 2 monopoly,” said the informal consumers’ group Pelco2-Nay in a statement.

Pelco 2 consumers burned their Facebook accounts with fiery complaints against their electricity bills last May, with many saying their charges shot up from two to even tens of thousand times over their usual monthly bills.

In a statement also posted on Facebook, Pelco 2 instead blamed the consumers themselves for using cooling devices more than usual arising from hot summer weather. It also blamed the Wholesale Electricity Spot Market (WESM) which was launched by the Department of Energy way back in 2006, ironically as a means to bring down the cost of electricity.

Pelco2-Nay said Pelco 2’s explanations “bordered on bad fairy tale,” especially in cases where bills jumped from P3,000 to about P84,000 or, at least in one case, to P860,000. Another is the case of an empty household for which a neighbor used to pay power meter maintenance fee of only P20 monthly, but was charged P4,000 in May.

“These instances, coupled with thousands finding the rise in their bills incredible, should at least have driven Pelco 2 management to investigate. But the management just stood pat on its incredible position,” Pelco2-Nay said.

The group said that while power usage usually increases during summer, “the bills last May seemed to have implied that consumers multiplied twice, thrice or even a hundredfold the number of their household appliances and used them simultaneously last May.”

Arrogance

“It was a case of monopoly arrogance and insensitivity. We have heard of some families going into debt so as to pay their bills despite their objections to their huge bills just so as to avoid their electricity being cut off after payment deadline,” it said.

Pelco2-Nay said its members will meet with Lazatin to urge him to file a bill dismantling Pelco 2 monopoly in their areas and allow AEC as option for consumers.

“This would not be the first time that people of Mabalacat, especially Barangay Dau which is very commercial, to consider AEC for their power supply,” the group said, noting that a few years ago, a similar proposal was considered but failed to prosper.

Pelco 2 also distributes power to the towns of Porac, Santa Rita, Baco, Lubao, Guagua, and Sasmuan. Mabalacat, however, is nearest Angeles City which is covered by AEC.

The circulation of electricity to end-users is a controlled common carrier business requiring a national franchise. The power to grant national franchises is exclusively vested to the Congress of the Philippines. Distribution of electric power to all end-users or consumers of electricity may be handled by private distribution utilities, cooperatives, local government units presently undertaking this function and other duly authorized entities, under the regulation of the Energy Regulatory Commission (ERC).

Meralco

In 2014, the Manila Electric Co., the biggest electricity retailer, acquired a 60-percent stake in Pelco 2 “to help improve power distribution in Pampanga province.”

Meralco signed a shareholders’ agreement with Comstech Integration Alliance Inc. formalizing the utility’s investment. Meralco said in a disclosure to the Philippine Stock Exchange it agreed to subscribe to new shares to be issued by Comstech amounting to P300 million, divided into three million shares with a par value of P100 apiece. The shares represent 60 percent of the authorized capital stock of Comstech. Comstech signed a contract to manage and operate Pelco 2 in February last year.

Also, in that year, Pelco 2 consumers complained of rise in their electric bills.

Records of the National Electrification Administration (NEA) show that the power distribution sector is composed of 119 electric cooperatives, 16 privately owned utilities and six local government-owned utilities as of 2009. These distribution utilities may acquire electricity from generation companies or the WESM, when certified as the distribution of electricity requires a national franchise, for distribution to residential, commercial, industrial and other users.

NEA, the government agency in charge of implementing programs to reinforce the technical capability and financial viability of rural electric cooperatives, may act as guarantor for purchases of electricity in the WESM by any electric cooperative or small distribution utility to support their credit standing.

billion and Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) with P4 billion.

In a statement, the CDC noted it “even surpassed the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) with P744 million, PNOC Exploration Corp. with P699 million cash dividends, and Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) with P650 million cash remittance.”

Other agencies who were included are the Philippine Ports Authority with P3.51 billion remittances, Manila International Airport Authority with P3.42 billion, and National Power Corp. (Napocor) with P842 million.

The CDC has declared P2.016 billion cash remittances to the national treasury in the past three years, including P500 million in 2016 and P700 million in 2017, and P815 million in 2018.

“These remittances represent half or 50 percent of the total remittances by the state-owned firm to the National Treasury in its 25-year existence,” the CDC said.

Under Republic Act No. 7656 also known as the Dividend Law, GOCCs are required to declare and remit at least 50 percent of their annual net earnings to the national government.

Maine Mendoza and Arjo Atayde spotted in Singapore

MORE THAN a week after Arjo Atayde introduced Maine Mendoza to his parents, the two lovebirds squeeze in a fun weekend getaway at Universal Studios Singapore.

The lovey dovey couple were caught on photos seated on a stairs. Maine was browsing her phone while Arjo watches her.

According to a netizen, Maine and Arjo gladly took their photos with 4 groups of pinoy who were also at the Universal Studios.

On their flight back home, some pinoy s also saw them on the dawn of June 3.

The couple might have been back for their shows - |Maine as a regular host of Eat bulaga while Arjo also does his regular taping for ABS-CBN’s “the General’s Daughter”.

Only solo photos were posted on Maine and arjo’s Instagram accounts.

However, it seems that they are noe both comfortable taking their pictures with other people as compared when they were seen on a theme park in Pasay in March.

At that time, both were even wearing mask to hide their faces.

As of press time, Maine and Arjo’s relationship is going deeper.

Do we hear wedding bells soon?

“Yes! Nanginginig pa rin ako. Meron pa rin, as in pinapawisan ang kamay ko, yung anit ko pinapawisan. But I found my own ways on how to deal with stage fright.”

“How? Dealing with it, just dealing with it.

“Definitely the first couple of minutes na nasa stage ako, sobrang naginginig pa ako and I have to like, ‘Haaah! Haaah!’

“So parang I shout it off lang, shout out the nerves and eventually I get into the groove, and okay na ako,”

Is there a chance that her younger sister Lauren Young marries her boyfriend first then her with her long time live-in partner Mikael Daez

“Baka hindi, baka hindi, Masyado pang bata si Lauren.”

Lauren has a non-showbiz boyfriend.

What’s the secret of their eight-year relationship?

“Communication. We’re very open with each other.

“We don’t hide anything from each other and kahit na parang feeling ko, ‘Naku mukhang magagalit si Mikael,’ sinasabi ko pa rin sa kanya.

“‘Tapos, ganun din siya sa akin. Kasi the more you hide it, the more na lalalim yung sugat ng away ninyo at lalong mas magiging big deal siya. So might as well address the problem and fix it right away.”

Jealousy was never an issue to them.

Because of their openness, they even share their own crushes.

“We have crushes and we share it with each other! It’s not a problem.”

Hotel Stotsenberg opens Fortunegate Casino in Clark

BY ASHLEY MANABAT

CLARK FREEPORT – Fortunegate Casino is slated for opening this month.

This was the announcement made by Fortunegate Casino general manager Ed Dacanay during a press conference at Hotel Stotsenberg here on Friday.

Dacanay said the casino will have 28 gaming tables, 134 slot machines and a money wheel as well as some VIP rooms, an entertainment space, a bar and other non-gaming facilities.

With Fortunegate Casino's opening this month, this freeport is now fast becoming the entertainment city and gaming capital of the region because of its accessibility to the Clark International Airport as noted by Dacanay.

Hotel Stotsenberg was established in 2004 which operated Casablanca Casino.

In February 2016, the hotel, which gained popularity as a favorite venue for MICE as well as weddings, birthdays and annual events of different organizations and companies, was acquired by Frontier Capital Group (FCG).

The Australian-listed FCG first revealed its plans to resume casino operations at Hotel Stotsenberg after confirming it has the necessary funds to settle a P225 million (US$4.4 million) PAGCOR escrow payment.

After completing the takeover of Hotel Stotsenberg for a cost of AU$26 million (US$18.1 million), FCG was forced to close casino operations on in 2017 after PAGCOR ordered the escrow payment.

Fortunegate Casino will be the fifth casino in this freeport after Widus, Royce, Fontana and Mimosa casinos. Pokhara Junket Casino at Xenia Hotel was closed after incurring damage due to the April 22 6.1 magnitude earthquake which jolted Luzon.

CDC's recyclables event to promote useful alternative to current waste disposal

CLARK FREEPORT— A useful alternative to the current disposal of wastes will be showcased in this Freeport in the upcoming 21st Recyclables Collection Event (RCE) and Disposal of Hazardous Wastes on June 11, 2019 here.

The event is being organized by Clark Development Corporation (CDC) in partnership with Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) Environmental Management Bureau Region III and Environmental Practitioners Association, Inc. (EPA).

Coinciding with the celebration of the Philippine Environment Month, CDC together with its partner agencies will conduct the said event to promote awareness on the proper disposal, treatment and management of hazardous wastes like busted lamps/bulbs, used oil, used lead acid batteries, and electronic wastes— white goods like refrigerators, air conditioners, television sets, microwave and consumer electronics like mobile phones, tablets, among others. Likewise, the activity also aims to promote recycling and materials recovery.

According to Environmental Permits Division (EPD) of CDC, a demonstration unit called GENAR 22 will be at the event venue to showcase the conversion of ordinary wastes materials such as plastics, textiles, and other solid wastes into oil. The same unit was also showcased during the 3rd Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) recyclables and collection event last year.

CDC-EPD also encourages the locators and stakeholders in this Freeport to participate in the event and bring their recyclables and selected hazardous wastes which have commercial value for the best buy back prices from DENR-accredited environmental services providers. The said activity will start at 9:00 AM to 3:30 PM at the CDC Parking Lot behind Building 2127 here.

The event will be supported by ABS CBN Lingkod Kapamilya Foundation through its Bantay Baterya and Bantay Langis Project. Last year, the RCE yielded about P686,000 from the disposal of wastes that was collected where the biggest donors of batteries were SFA Semicon Phils (Samsung) and Mimosa Cityscapes (Filinvest) worth P72,001 and P26,607, respectively.

The success of the program will be measured by the large volume of hazardous wastes collected that will no longer pose danger to the environment and human health.

The RCE activity was started by CDC and the EPA in 2003, and was initially opened to recyclables (or "kalakal") like paper, cartons, PET bottles, aluminum cans and ULAB. However, through the year's household hazardous wastes like busted lamps were included in 2010.

DOST-SEI urges science, math teachers to join innovation contest

MANILA, Philippines – To catch up with a rapidly changing educational landscape, teachers are embracing new roles as innovators and designers of learning environment.

This is the idea behind "InnoBox" or Innovation in a Box, a nationwide search for the most innovative teaching and learning resources (TLR) which can be used in teaching both science and mathematics.

The competition, organized by the Department of Science and Technology – Science Education Institute (DOST-SEI), is open to all public and private elementary and secondary school teachers who are currently teaching science and/or mathematics. It aims to encourage teachers to be innovative, creative, and practical in teaching science and math concepts to improve students' performance in the subjects.

"We're always on the lookout for teachers who are keen on improving science and math education in the country," says DOST-SEI Director Dr. Josette Biyo. DOST-SEI, known for implementing various DOST scholarship programs, recognizes the crucial role of educators in strengthening science and technology in the country.

Now on its second run, InnoBox continues to challenge science and math teachers to come up with ideas for more engaging learning experience in the classroom. Nine teachers/group of teachers (three per category) will be given P50,000 each to develop their project prototype, while top three winners (one per category) will receive a plaque of recognition and P100,000 each.

DOST-SEI invites all qualified teachers to submit proposals in any of the following search categories: Grades 3-6; Grades 7-10; and Grades 11-12. The deadline for submission of proposals is on July 12, 2019. For details, interested parties may go to www.sei.dost.gov.ph or email the InnoBox Secretariat at innobox.seidost@gmail.com.

SM Foundation turns over new school building to Balanga ES

BY MALOU DUNGOG

SM FOUNDATION turned over this Friday a newly-built two-story, four-classroom school building to Balanga Elementary School (BES) in Bataan to be used by their Grade 6 learners starting SY 2019-2020.

Donated by SM Prime, through SM Foundation and in close coordination with the local government unit of Balanga, Bataan, this 93rd school building donation of SM comes with 200 armchairs (20 of which are for left-handed learners), 16 wall fans, eight blackboards, four teacher’s desk sets, four wall clocks, and four toilets (PWD toilet at the ground floor). The donated school building also has a 10-faucet handwashing facility and a reading corner with books donated by SM Retail. SM Pampanga and the city government of Balanga both donated 10 computer units for the learners of BES.

Department of Education (DepEd) OIC-Schools Division Superintendent Carolina Violeta expressed her gratitude to SM for considering BES for this donation and said that SM Foundation’s donation will not just create venues for learning experience to students, but will also foster better relationships among the learners, teachers, and communities.

BES Principal Amelia Inieto likewise thanked the Foundation for its support. “Tulong-tulong naming mamahalin at iingatan ang inyong regalo sa Balanga Elementary School. As principal, I commit to make sure that this sanctuary will stand the test of time for the future generation of students,” said Inieto.

Also present at the event were SM Foundation executives, led by executive director for Education Program Carmen Linda Atayde, and Juris Soliman, head of the School Building Team; SM Supermalls Regional Operations Manager Cesar Bondoc; SM Retail Senior Assistant Vice President for Corporate Communications Gilda Patricia Maquilan; city officials, led by Mayor Francis Anthony Garcia; and other officials and representatives.

In her speech, Atayde looked back to the program’s growth from its inception in 2002. The program started providing communities with one-story, two-classroom school buildings, and the other equipment and facilities were just added over the years. She further asked the help of the local government officials and the school in informing the learners about the SM College Scholarship program which only began including Bataan in its program this year. She also called on to higher education learning institutions and organizations to become partner-schools for the said program.

Accommodating around 2,500 students, BES – founded in 1876 – has produced numerous captains of industry and business and some political leaders as well. The BES campus is where the formal surrender of Bataan and Filipino war veterans took place, which is why it also has a public museum about World War II. BES has 19 school buildings, and has a classroom-student ratio of 1:45 for Kinder to Grade 6 and 1:10 for Special Education-Learners with Special Educational Needs.

100 E-Trike, ipinagkaloob ng DOE sa Malolos City

LUNGSOD NG MALOLOS, Hunyo 3 (PIA) -- Dumating na sa Malolos ang 100 Electric Tricycle o E-Trike na ipinagkaloob ng Department of Energy.

Ayon kay outgoing Mayor Christian D. Natividad, ang nasabing mga E-Trike ay idedestino sa Malolos City Tourism Office upang magamit sa pagbisita ng mga turista sa mga makasaysayan at pamanang lugar sa lungsod. Bawat isa ay kayang makapaglu-lan ng hanggang anim na katao.

Kasalukuyang nakaparada ang mga ito sa garahe ng Malolos Sports and Convention Center kung saan isa-isa itong isinasailalim sa pangkalahatang pagsusuri o check-up.

Sinabi ni City Tourism Officer Direk Armando P. Sta. Ana na malaking tulong ito sa pagikot-ikot ng mga turista. Halimbawa, pagbaba sa patio ng simbahan ng Barasoain mula sa kanilang sinakyang bus, maaari nang sumakay sa E-Trike na maghahatid sa kanila sa Casa Real, Kamistisuhan District kung saan matatagpuan ang mga pamanang bahay na naging tanggapang ng mga ahensya noong Unang Republika, mga bahay ng mga Kadalagahan ng Malolos at ang Katedral-Basilika ng Malolos.

Gov to MGB: Assess loosened rocks...

ground assessment so we could plan ahead and implement immediate measures before the occurrence of any calamity," the governor said.

Engineer Noel Lacadin, MGB chief geologist said they were instructed by the governor to reiterate an advisory on rockslides hitting Purok 6 and 7 of Barangay San Juan Baño in Arayat and Takwi in Magalang after the assessment on the state of the loosened rocks in Mount Arayat.

It can be recalled that the Arayat local government unit (LGU) led by Mayor Emmanuel 'Bon' Alejandrino has built a deflector - a row of sandbags placed along the path to slow down the flow of water and rocks going to Purok 6 and 7 of San Juan Baño.

In an interview to Mayor Alejandrino, he said the LGU is ready to replace the sandbags but reiterate that sandbagging is just a palliative measure, what is needed, he added is an engineering intervention that would last long to avoid any untoward incidents in the future.

However, the mayor said their proposed engineering solutions had been turned down by the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH).

The governor has also a continuing instruction to Mayor Alejandrino to conduct a pre-emptive evacuation and move the residents to an evacuation center built by the provincial government behind the town hall during rainy season.

This came amidst the threat that 22,000 among the 50,000 truckloads of rocks would go down hitting the said communities in two towns.

Lacadin said these rocks are ready to go down via the active channels of Maeyagas, Takwi, Madalumdum and Oliva creeks.

It was learned that more than 5,000 residents at Purok 6 and 7 in Barangay San Juan Baño are in direct path of harm's way. —Pamp PIO
