CLARK FREEPORT – “A transport infrastructure project like the NSCR will spur economic growth in Central Luzon, particularly the provinces of Bulacan and Pampanga.”

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO -- “A symbol of hope. What is happening in the world now is different and difficult. We hope for something better. And we shall be one in this through the tradition of the Giant Lantern Festival which embodies the spirit of resiliency of Kapampangans.”

Thus, acting City Mayor Jimmy Lazatin keynoted the ceremonial lighting of the Samparnandu Parol and giant Christmas Tree at Robinsons Sarmills here on Friday to start the 100-day countdown to “Ligligan Parul” or the CITY OF SAN FERNANDO — For chomping off pizzas worth P1.7 million, the officials of Barangay Dolores here are now in hot water.

Barangay chief Vilma Caluag, who is also president of the city's Association of Barangay Captains, along with barangay treasurer Edward Pangan are now facing criminal and administrative charges before the Ombudsman for violation of the Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act.

On Wednesday, local businessman Alvin R. Garcia told the media in a press conference here that they were surprised to know that based on a Commission on Audit report, for several months before the elections in 2019, the said village officials consumed P1.74-million worth of snacks from a popular pizza parlor along Jose Abad Santos Avenue here.

Vax drive, strict protocols to revive Subic tourism

BY MALOU DUNGOG

SUBIC BAY FREE-PORT — An expanded vaccination program and conscientious adherence to health safety protocols will make it possible for the tourism industry in Subic to recover early despite the continuing Covid-19 pandemic.

These are the pre-conditions set by Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority chair and administrator Wilma T. Eisma on Monday, as tourism stakeholders discussed prospects during the opening of the Philippine Travel Exchange (PHITEX) 2021 opening held at the Acea Subic Beach Resort here.

"We have been strictly implementing minimum health and safety protocols everywhere in the free port—wearing of face mask and face shield, practicing social distancing, sanitizing hands every time, and staying home and not going out unless necessary. This kept our Covid cases low," Eisma said.

"We are now focused on having our economic frontliners vaccinated so bread-winners can protect themselves and their loved ones from Covid-19. So, we can revive our economy," she added.

PHITEX 2021 is now in full swing here on Sept. 20-23 as a hybrid event spearheaded by the Tourism Promotions Board Philippines, the marketing and promotions arm of the Department of Tourism. The event welcomed 156 Philippine sellers and 122 buyers from 33 countries who will engage in a two-day online business-to-business session and networking.

PHITEX 2021, which carried the theme "Beyond Business: Co-creating Safe, Smart, and Sustainable Tourism," also provided curated post-tours in bubble arrangements to showcase Subic destinations like Grande Island, Pamulaklakin, El Kabayo, and Apaliin, which are considered among the best in Region III.

AC gets P5-M from PAGCOR

ANGELES CITY — Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp. chair Andrea D. Domingo on Thursday turned over to Mayor Carmelo "Pogi" Lazatin Jr. a donation of P5 million for the city's Covid-19 response.

The donation will cover the charges from hotels that were tapped as temporary quarantine facilities for Covid-19 patients in the city.

It was last April that Lazatin coordinated with members of the Hotels and Restaurants Association in Pampanga for their help in accommodating Covid-19 cases, arriving at the decision to designate a number of hotels as isolation areas for patients who are asymptomatic and with mild symptoms.

Currently, the city has 480 isolation rooms. Of these, 230 which serve free meals and equipped with air coolers are free of charge for indigent Angeleños; 220 also with free meals are a notch higher than the standard room thereby occupants will have to shoulder 50 percent of the charge; 20 were also allotted to the city by the Pampanga provincial government at the Mexico Isolation Facility; and 10 are available at the National Government Administrative Center at New Clark City for Angeleño patients.

'Pisay' campus to rise in NCC

THE PHILIPPINE Science High School (PSHS), in partnership with the Bases Conversion and Development Authority, is constructing a 4.6-hectare learning site in New Clark City, Tarlac, which will serve as a campus for its senior high school students and a resource center for teachers and professionals.

Dubbed as the "In-finitum," the new site of the country's premier science high school is envisioned to become the "center for learning and service continuity for the entire PSHS System."

The master plan for the campus was approved in August by the BCDA board of directors.

BCDA president-CEO Vince Dizon said the establishment of the new PSHS campus in New Clark City would contribute to the development and training of teachers and future science and technology professionals in the country.

"We hope that with the new PSHS campus, we will be able to give more opportunities for quality education to deserving Filipino students especially in Central and Northern Luzon. The Covid-19 pandemic has highlighted the valuable contribution of science and technology in our society. We will also be able to build our pool of researchers and professionals who would help us prevent other pandemics in the future," Dizon said.

He added: "It is also crucial, now more than ever, to invest in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education to stop climate change and provide scientific and technological solutions to issues plaguing our society."

The PSHS System is an attached agency of the Department of Science and Technology. It prepares students for careers in Science and Technology and contributes to nation-building by helping the country attain a critical mass of professionals and leaders in the science and technology field.

Church rites commodified

...WHEN THE IATF came up with new regulations about public religious gatherings, this kind of thinking showed itself very clearly in the vocabulary that they used, in referring to Church members who come together for our Eucharistic celebrations. They called them "CUSTOMERS."

Here's how they put it in their latest advisories posted in the social media: "Alert Level 4: Al fresco dining (30% capacity), indoor dine-in (10% capacity, but for fully vaccinated customers only. Barber shops and beauty salons, same, 30% outdoor and 10% indoor for fully vaccinated customers only. Then came the surprise, "Religious gatherings, 30% outdoor, 10% indoor for fully vaccinated "CUSTOMERS" only!

Oh, I said to myself. Now I see how they regard us: a business establishment. I do not blame them; maybe they do not come to Church themselves. Or they probably belong to a Church that operates that way. And so they regard the Church as a business-oriented, profit-oriented establishment.

A "customer" is defined in the dictionary as "one who purchases a commodity or service." So they think Church services are commodities for sale.

I am in no position to condemn such thinking, even if I take offense at it or find it insulting. I don't mean to be hypocritical; after all, the Church also needs material resources to sustain its operations. But I would probably be the first to resign, the moment the Church is reduced to a business enterprise.

Hanging tough

Ang sa akin lang, being a Filipino, ako gusto ko sana, I rather be tried, convicted, and even hanged before a Filipino court rather than be tried, convicted, and hanged before a foreign court.

I would rather have a justice criminal system run like hell by Filipino judges rather than a criminal justice run like heaven by foreign judges.

Because being a Filipino, siguro naman it's also my right, my human right to be tried before a Filipino court.

Through the eyes of mercy

I WONDER what it must have been like for the Filipinos who worked for the Japanese during the Japanese occupation. It was during that time that the generally positive word "collaborator" took on a very negative meaning. They were regarded as traitors.

I imagine St. Matthew, the apostle whom we celebrate today, in that kind of a situation when Jesus called him to become part of his core group of twelve. I wouldn't be surprised that the negative reaction came, not just from the Pharisees, but also from the other followers of Jesus. John tells us in his Gospel that some of the other disciples eventually defected from Jesus' group because they could not accept his teachings. I am sure that there were also those who left because they could not stomach the idea of being in the company of people like Matthew.

There is actually a little bit of a confusion in the Gospel narrative about the call of Matthew. It has always been presupposed that it was Matthew who invited Jesus Jesus and his companions to his house for a dinner. Actually it is the other way around, as narrated by Matthew himself. Jesus, he says, was passing by when he saw Matthew seated in his tax-collector's post, and invited Matthew to follow him. The scene that follows is a table fellowship. The lines that follow read this way, "While HE WAS AT TABLE IN HIS HOUSE, many tax collectors and sinners came and sat with Jesus and his disciples."

Who was at table in whose house? It is the translators who cause the confusion by supplying their interpretation into the translation. As they say in Italian, "traduttore, traditore" (translator, traitor). The New International Version of the Bible, for instance, avoids the vague sentence by reading it as "While Jesus was at table in his (meaning, Matthew's house). I am more inclined to read it the other way around, "While Matthew was at table in Jesus' house." Yes, it appears that Jesus had a house or a home base in Capernaum where he gathered his disciples.

St. Bede has a commentary on this call of Matthew, which, apparently was instrumental in the personal conversion story of Jorge Mario Bergoglio (who would later become Pope Francis) when he was just 17 years old and went to confession. He refers to that confession as a turning point in his life. It is what he would later be reminded of when he was already a Jesuit, at each time the Feast of St. Matthew was celebrated and he read the second reading from the Proper of the Saints, which is the commentary of St. Bede. That part where St. Bede says, "(Jesus) saw (Matthew) through the eyes of mercy and chose him" became the source of his inspiration for his episcopal motto when he became a bishop: MISERANDO ATQUE ELIGENDO.

St. Bede actually imagined that and supplemented it to the text. I call it reading between the lines. He is amazed about Jesus "seeing Matthew through the eyes of mercy and choosing him". His reflection reminds me of that part in the song Looking Through the Eyes of Love that says,

"I can see what's mine now
Finding out what's true,
Since I've found you
Lookin' through the eyes of love."

What was there about that look that changed Matthew? Well, maybe all his life, Matthew must have felt that people looked at him with the eyes of judgment and condemnation. In the TV episodes THE CHOSEN which I recommended that you watch, Matthew is portrayed as a person with autism. There is a commentary on The Chosen by Kevin Keating that says that Matthew there is portrayed as being drawn to Jesus not so much because he is a sinner in need of forgiveness. The main problem that he struggles with isn't sin; it's rejection. And what Jesus offers for his struggle isn't heart transformation and forgiveness but acceptance and inclusion."

Pope Francis must have felt the same way when he made that confession at the age of 17 and decided to join the Jesuits. Imagine how that one turning point in his life is making such a huge impact on the history of the Church. Now we have a Pope who constantly admonishes us to learn to look at others through Jesus' eyes of mercy and set aside the prejudices we tend to develop when we look at them through the lenses of moral and doctrinal uprightness.

There is a famous painting of the Call of Matthew by Caravaggio. Jesus is pointing at him, and Matthew is reacting with eyes wide open while pointing at himself with a look of surprise. You can actually guess what he is saying, WHO, ME? I think if I were the one who painted that scene, I would have entitled it, YES, YOU.

Yes, only through the eyes of mercy can one look at a sinner and see a potential saint.

Leadership in the pandemic

So much depended on leadership in this time of a modern plague that both experts and pundits alike have put premium on its uncompromising value in dealing with the natural disaster effectively. This is a critical time where expertise and punditry can serve public purpose well both in terms of strategy and encouragement.

The frame for meaningful public discourse is, if leadership is good, it shows in how the protean virus has been contained, how fast vaccination has been rolled out, how much the economy has been protected and, probably, how corruption hasn't been a collateral issue at all.

There have been bad and good examples worldwide. But one closes to home stands out: Taiwan.

Taiwan, which is just proverbially a cock's crow away from the Philippines, has been hailed by most of the world for its exemplary leadership in this sense, let alone in other respects. The award-winning journalist Fareed Zakaria, a CNN commentator and Washington Post columnist, has even hailed Taiwan as the 'gold star' in leadership versus the pandemic. Taiwan's leader is a woman, inspiring no less than former NEDA head Solita Monsod to push passionately for Leni Robredo for the presidency. No final beep yet from the veep.

Numbers, as they say, don't lie. In a country which has 21 million people, only 15 have died due to COVID 19. In the Philippines, which has more or less 100 million people, death has reached more than 30,000. You don't need a calculator to establish the disproportionality. Zakaria cited at least three leadership metrics for its winning way, namely an early, aggressive and intelligent approach.

How does our national approach measure with Taiwan's three winning strategies?

It appears we failed to do it as early as we should have, the biggest if. Misplaced diplomatic sense can be blamed for it. When COVID 19 emerged as a medical issue in Wuhan, China, the government was already urged to stop the flights coming from the area. Health Secretary Francisco Duque balked on the premise that it might offend China. To be fair, it might not have been Duque's own orthodox thinking but a result of his principal's Sino politics. The rest is history, and we're seeing cases rising daily by the thousands and the whole archipelago reeling from it. No one can surely say if the infectious trend has reached its peak. Or when.

So far, our authorities are trying to catch up with the other metrics. One thing is so far painfully evident: Murphy's Law's 'if something can go wrong, it will' appears to, the be more practically applied in the past rather than future tense. The other question that keeps nagging our consciousness is if we have really learned from experience, not just from our own but from those of others like Taiwan.

The reality is vaccination is slower than official announcements that more vaccines are coming to town, mostly the Chinese brand, while more and more people are clamoring for the non-China brands, never mind if one brand is from Russia. Why the preference for the Chinese brands, not only of the vaccines but other related medical supplies, the ongoing Senate investigation is providing a plausible, though not yet final, answer. China, of course, is the factory of the world, from genuine to imitation.

Many Filipinos fighting off the existentialist threat are stymied by the slow rate of vaccination. Local government units can only be as fast and effective as the vaccines are made available. Politics, a constant like the pi, is also considered a significant hurdle.

In Pampanga, where the provincial government is widely lauded for its better vaccination program, there are two cities that are said to be ahead in the vaccination game: Angeles City and Mabalacat City, both in the First District of the province. Health teams from both LGUs are supposedly to be going house-to-house to vaccinate people. Of course, it can be said that both LGUs are better off in terms of financial resources than other LGUs, except for San Fernando. If Mayor Carmelo "Pogi" Lazatin Jr. and Mayor Chris Garbo had both tested positive, it's the downside of the territory of public service. Never mind the usual cynicism about the much-ballyhooed viral infection.

Governments, whether national or local, are supposed to play bigger roles when bad times such as the pandemic occur. In other words, this is the time to play bigger-than-life figures for leaders. Zakaria, however, noted that it's not the size of the government that matters at the end of the day, although it helps, but the quality of government, or leadership for that matter.

The Duterte government is ostensibly playing a gargantuan, even draconian, role in the fight against the invisible enemy. (This is where the Taiwan strategy ends and where the Philippines knee-jerk response begins). Then there is an emerging issue of corruption being pursued by the Senate blue ribbon committee on the alleged overpriced medical supplies from China by a Chinese-owned company with help from Duterte's chosen men.

Sen. Richard Gordon, head of the blue ribbon committee, and Duterte are already engaged in a "word war" never seen before in Philippine politics whose outcome is feared to result in a constitutional crisis. That word is pregnant with serious implications. The bottom line for Gordon, thus far, is that the country is now, if not has been, in the hands of a wrong leader whom he strongly described as 'a cheap politician' not worthy of Filipinos' respect.

While the nation is still in the throes of the pandemic, whose end isn't yet in sight, and with the choice for leaders in the local and national government at stake, Gordon's fighting words should resonate more emphatically to Filipino voters. The choice has never been more crucial for the nation's future, with everything from the economy to education

Lima na, sa ngayon' itong hindi pa man umpisa ng 'campaign period' nariryan na at maririnig itong iba't-ibang isyu na wala rin namang katiyakan.

Partikular na sa isang nangunguna sa survey, na itong butihin niyang ama, inakusahan ng pagnanakaw, di ba napatunayan nang inosente pala?

At ang anila ay kanyang kinulimbat na ginto sa 'basement' ng ating Central Bank ay pag-aari niya, na ipinambayad ng angkang Tallano sa kaso niyang hawak.

Inihayag na ang bagay na naturan sa 'social media' at mga pahayagan, kung saan ang mga tone-toneladang ginto nina Marcos ay nasa Switzerland.

At sa ibang mga malalaking bangko na pinaglagakan ng di lamang libo, kundi ng 'metric tons of gold' ayon mismo kay Madam Imelda na di nakaw ito.

Hindi sa isyung yan, si Marcos ay ating sa mata ng bayan gustong palitawing bayani at hindi marapat sikilin sa kung anong naging akusasyon natin.

Kundi nang dahil di napatunayan ng alin mang Korte na 'convicted' nga yan, sa kung anong kaso na ibinibintang, kaya nga't absuelto pati pamilya niyan.

At lalong di dapat idamay si Bongbong sa anumang naging atraso ni Macoy, pagkat kinse anyos pa lamang si Bongbong nang ideklara ni Apo ang 'martial law'.

At kung nagkasala man si Apo Lakay, ang mga anak ay di dapat idamay, na gaya ni Bongbong o ng sino pa mang kapamilyang nais makapanungkulan!

Giant Lantern Festival set on Dec. 16.

Robinsons Starmills will be hosting a pre-holiday sale on Sept. 15-30 featuring their outlet shops, along with a lantern exhibit for local entrepreneurs and lantern makers, and the Sinukwan Festival featuring Kapampangan art, culture, and cuisine.

On Dec. 16, seven barangays will showcase their respective giant lanterns. These lanterns will be exhibited until Jan. 2, 2022, at Robinsons which has been hosting the festival for 14 years now.

Due to the ongoing pandemic, Ligligan Parul will go digital anew as "mere" exhibition without the usual competition. This, to ensure public safety and the strict enforcement of health protocols. The festival will be aired live via regional television network CLTV-36 and GLF social media sites.

Participating in this 113th edition of the festival are barangays Sto. Niño, San Juan, San Nicolas, Sta. Lucia, Bulaon, Telebastagan, and Calulut. -- with their respective giant lanterns at Robinsons Starmills on December 16 at 5 p.m. It will be aired live via regional television network CLTV36 and GLF social media sites.

Joining Lazatin at the countdown ceremony were Acting City Vice-Mayor Benedict Jasper Lagman; Robbie Hizon, Giant Lantern Foundation chairman; Ricardo Pineda, of the 2021 GLF Executive Committee; Jodee Paulette P. Arroyo, Robinsons regional operations manager; Leah Belmonte, mall operations manager; Ma. Theresa Gonzales, area marketing manager; and the Robinsons' teams.

From his quarantine base, Mayor Edwin Santiago, who contracted Covid-19 some days ago, issued a statement hailing the Kapampangan lantern makers.

"Amid the pandemic, we are able to show the whole world our pride, the giant lanterns. We celebrate this occasion every year. Each year, we proudly celebrate the great and talented lantern makers who continue to excel their craft through generations." Santiago said.

Adding: "The message that these lanterns bring remains the same. That life is colorful and the hope that this pandemic shall pass stays bright."

ORDER

Before this court is petition for: (1) the cancellation of the certificate of live birth of petitioner Grace Arce Tamayo, bearing Registry No. 285, registered with Local Civil Registrar of Sasmuan, Pampanga and the Philippine Statistics Authority, and (2) the "maintenance/upholding" petitioner's certificate of live birth bearing Registry No. 399, also registered with the Local Registry of Sasmuan, Pampanga and the Philippine Statistics Authority.

Petitioner alleges that she was born on September 25, 1974 in Sasmuan, Pampanga. The fact of her birth was registered with the local civil registry of Sasmuan, Pampanga. Her birth certificate bears Registry No. 399.

Because she was already thinking of retiring from government service, she requested her brother Gerardo A. Tamayo to obtain the necessary documents from several government offices. When Gerardo went to the Philippines Statistics Authority to secure petitioner's birth certificate, he learned that petitioner has two (2) certificates of live birth in the records of the PSA.

Gerardo proceeded to the office of the Local Civil Registrar of Sasmuan, Pampanga to verify the matter. In the first birth certificate, petitioner's date of birth is September 25, 1973. In the second birth certificate, petitioner's date of birth is indicated as September 25, 1974. The Local Civil Registry told Gerardo that a registry officer or employee might have committed an error, resulting in two (2) birth certificates being recorded for petitioner. The Municipal Registrar certified that per the register of births, on page 110, Book VII, petitioner was born on September 25, 1974.

Petitioner has been using September 25, 1974 as her date of birth in all her records.

The petition is sufficient in form and substance. Set this case for hearing on November 17, 2021 at 9:30 in the morning, before this court, at the Hall of Justice, San Matias, Guagua, Pampanga.

Let this order be published once a week for three (3) consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the province of Pampanga, expenses to be borne by petitioner. The Civil Registrar General and Municipal Civil Registrar of Sasmuan, Pampanga, as well as any person having or claiming any interest in the birth certificate whose cancellation is sought may, within fifteen (15) days from notice of the petition or from the last date of publication of such notice, pertinent pleading, and appear on the date and time mentioned above to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

Let copies of the petition, its annexes, and this Order be furnished the Solicitor General, the Provincial Prosecutor of Pampanga, the Civil Registrar General, and the Municipal Civil Registrar of Sasmuan, Pampanga.

The court's Officer-in-Charge is directed to furnish the Office of the Clerk of Court, Regional Trial Court, Guagua, Pampanga with a copy of this order so the same may be published in accordance with the provisions of Presidential Decree No. 1079.

which is contrary to the best interest of the service and violation of RA 6713 (Norms of conduct of public officials and employees) and Code of Ethical Standards for public officials and employees, Garcia said.

He, as well as co-complainants Roberto L. Cayan and Reynaldo G. Yap, are all bona fide residents of Barangay Dolores.

The complainants are asking the Ombudsman to have the two officials suspended and dismissed from public office. The case filed on May 27, 2021 stemmed from the COA report dated July 13, 2020.

Garcia also said the COA report found some deficiencies in the P1.743 million expenses of the barangay for meals during various activities.

The COA found that almost 47 percent or P807,350.07 of the P1.743 million meal expenses were purchased from the same pizza establishment in the city. Garcia said that the barangay treasurer also happens to be the manager of the said pizza parlor branch.

"It has a conflict of interest. There are also lots of missing documents such as public bidding and receipts," Garcia said. He added that there was no bidding done for much of the purchases under the said amount.

The COA audit report said for 2019, "the barangay spent a total of P1,743,579 for payments of food consumed during various activities of the barangay." The COA also added that there were transactions exceeding the amount of P50,000 that did not undergo bidding as required by the applicable rules and regulations.

Other than the pizza, the COA also found that the papers for the P88,800 reimbursements of medical and burial assistance were insufficient, according to Garcia. The COA report said that the medical and burial assistances were "not adequately documented nor supported with any documents evidencing disbursements."

Garcia told reporters that the case has been filed before the Ombudsman to give justice to how the funds are used under the administration of Caluag. Garcia, who claimed to be a relative of Caluag, said that he is morally obliged to speak out for the other residents of the barangay who are afraid to make their barangay officials accountable for their actions.

Caluag could not be reached for comment as of press time.

the BCDA and PSHS signed a memorandum of agreement for the establishment of a campus for senior high school students, as well as a learning resource center for teachers, administrative support, and other professionals within New Clark City.

The new campus will supplement PSHS' modernization efforts by establishing state-of-the-art facilities, advanced laboratories, academic spaces, training venues and living quarters. It seeks not only to spur immersive learning for students, but also to continue the development of teaching and non-teaching employees.

It will also accommodate the increasing student and employee population in PSHS' existing campus at the Clark Freeport Zone.

Under the approved master plan, 80 percent of the total campus area will be open space while only 20 percent will be occupied.

The new campus will have facilities for traditional and alternative learning, as well as indoor and outdoor setups showcasing the latest technological innovations. The campus will feature a training center, technology hub, research center, innovation center, multipurpose academic building, administration building, a summer camp area and dormitories, which will be constructed in phases.

The procurement for the detailed architectural and engineering design for the Training Center is ongoing. It is targeted to be completed by 2022.

underscored the need for safety to sustain tourism.

"Our considerations have been altered by the adverse impact of the pandemic to our industry," Puyat said. "Safety has become the number one concern of today's travelers, and it's something that the DOT, our partners in government, and all Philippine tourism stakeholders, have carefully taken into consideration when we began the difficult task of plotting the recovery of the industry."

Puyat also cited DOT's goals to vaccinate all tourism workers by 2022, leverage technology to market and promote tourism products, and pursue community-based tourism programs.

The Subic Bay Freeport became this year's choice for PHITEX 2021, as it met DOT requirements for holding MICE events in wide-open spaces. The event is being held in strict compliance with new normal safety and health protocols and in adherence to guidelines set by the Covid-19 Inter-Agency Task Force.

The travel exchange aimed to communicate to the global market that tourism in the Philippines is safe and flourishing with its new product offerings, and to provide support to local sellers, including hosting their accommodation and land-based trips to emerging destinations.

Around 156 seller-tourism establishments participated (33 on-site and 123 virtual) and 122 buyers from 33 countries, including Spain and South Korea, joined the event.
